'Premature' to nix Sir John A. Parkway LRT, city says

Proposed routes. Hobbs backs off from statement that parkway LRT is off the table

ALEX BOUTILLIER
alex.boutillier@metronews.ca

Kitchissippi Coun. Katherine Hobbs says she wasn't speaking for the city's transit commission Wednesday when she said the possibility of a westward light-rail expansion along the Sir John A. MacDonald Parkway was off the table.

Hobbs said the decisions have yet to be made about where the western LRT corridor will go.

"The process is still ongoing, and there's still discussions with the (National Capital Commission), and there's more public discussions, and it's going to transportation committee in June and then council this summer," Hobbs said Thursday.

"The decision on the actual route has not been made."

Hobbs said she did not want to seem like she was precluding anything Wednesday, when she told Metro Ottawa that it's "just not feasible to do the whole route on the parkway" and that it would not be one of the "refined routes" presented at an open house next Thursday.

Running the western route down the Sir John A. Parkway was one of 15 routes under consideration as of last May. Three other routes were considered for Carling Avenue, and 11 routes proposed using Richmond Road and Byron Avenue.

The NCC has objected to using the parkway, the Carling options are more expensive, and neighbouring residents have mounted an opposition to the use of the Richmond/Byron corridor.

Vivi Chi, the city's manager of transportation planning, declined an interview request on Thursday. A written statement from the city's corporate communications branch was provided. Coun. Diane Deans, the chair of the transit commission, was also unavailable.

A 31-year-old man faces a number of charges, including failing to provide a breath sample, after he was involved in a collision on Highway 417 in which a six-year-old boy was ejected from an SUV Wednesday night, the OPP say.

Wesley Moher of North Grenville was also charged with failing to remain at the scene of a collision causing bodily harm, dangerous driving causing bodily harm, and having an open container of liquor.

Police say the driver of a pickup truck struck a car in the westbound lane of the 417 around 10:05 p.m. between Woodroffe and Pinecrest avenues and then struck an SUV.

The collision caused the SUV to flip on its side, causing the boy to be thrown out of the vehicle, police say.

An off-duty OPP officer witnessed the collision and followed the pickup truck until it was stopped on Highway 416.

The OPP say the child suffered serious injuries, but is in stable condition. The driver of the SUV and three other children suffered non-life-threatening injuries.

The occupants of the pickup truck and the car were not injured.

Moher is to appear in court in Ottawa May 22 and in provincial offences court May 17.

The OPP is investigating the collision.

Citizens' group. Residents feel out of the loop on west LRT

A citizens' group opposed to running a western expansion of Ottawa's LRT down Richmond Road and Byron Avenue say they are struggling to get information on the city's plans.

"We don't feel like we're participating, we don't feel like we know what's going on," said Neeta McMurtry of Neighbours for Smart Western Rail.

"We bought homes in an area, and of course people care about that. It's your biggest investment and you want to be excited for the future of our neighbourhood."

McMurtry said Thursday she was surprised to read comments saying the possibility of running a western LRT expansion along the Sir John A. MacDonald Parkway is off the table.

The comments came from Kitchissippi Coun. Katherine Hobbs, who said Thursday she was speaking only for herself, not for the city's transit commission. The city's corporate communications branch said it's premature to rule out any route.

"We're already amazed that there can be routes put on and off the table and there's sort of an implication that there has been an invitation to stakeholders in the area to participate," said McMurtry. "There's been none of that."

Barrhaven woman's fund for organ recipients gets an assist from Canadian pop star Justin Bieber

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

For the past couple months Hélène Campbell has been trekking back and forth between Ottawa and Toronto to put the final touches on an initiative to breathe new life into her organ-donation crusade.

The 22-year-old double-lung-transplant recipient from Barrhaven started an online campaign to raise awareness of a new fund she helped create at the Toronto General Hospital to help transplant patients and their families with the financial costs of waiting for a donor.

Launching on April 22, the Transplant Patient and Family Support Fund is the result of a partnership of the Toronto General, Western Hospital Foundation and the Multi Organ Transplant Program, said Campbell.

"Basically there are a lot of out-of-pocket costs for transplant patients and their families during the tissue and organ donation experience and the minimum is $10,000," she said, adding that transplant patients must live within two hours from Toronto.

"Not everyone is as fortunate as I am with the amount of support I had. And I know, even though we had that much support, it was still stressful with out-of-pocket costs that you don't think you would need, like oxygen or the medication, transportation."

She said she is hoping to raise enough money for 30 families in the first two months.

When she sat down with Ellen DeGeneres in February, the talk-show host promised she would auction off a pair of Justin Bieber's underwear — a gift the pop star gave to Campbell — to raise money for her new fund. Campbell said that deal is still on.

In the lead up to the launch, she is asking people to visit Facebook.com/Give2LiveCampaign to help raise awareness about the fund.

Deadly house fire likely started in fuse box: Police

A fire that ravaged through a home in Thurso, Que., killing two young girls was likely caused by an electrical problem, police said Thursday following a preliminary investigation.

The bodies of two girls, aged three and eight, were found in the home by investigators around 9:20 a.m. Wednesday, about five hours after the fire broke out.

Sgt. Marc Tessier, a Quebec provincial police spokesperson, said the source of the fire appears to be a fuse box located in the basement of the two-storey home located at 228 Lacroix St., which is about 45 kilometres east of Gatineau.

The father has been released from the intensive-care unit and remains in stable condition in hospital, Tessier said Thursday afternoon.

The father was sent to hospital with life-threatening injuries after neighbour Sylvain Leblanc said he tried to rescue the two girls from the second-storey window.

He had to jump out of the window almost instantly because the flames were too strong.

The 12-year-old girl who suffered major burns to her body is in critical but stable condition while an adult woman remains in hospital as a precautionary measure, Tessier said. A six-year-old boy and a small infant were released from hospital Thursday, and a 12-year-old girl who is a family friend was treated and released the day of the blaze. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Crackdown on vacant buildings decried

Committee go-ahead.
City to study potential new bylaw measures in spite of opposition from landowners' group

ALEX BOUTILLIER
alex.boutillier@metronews.ca

The city is moving forward with a review of new strategies to deal with the owners of vacant properties despite a landowners' group calling the measures "extortion" and "expropriation."

The city's community and protective services committee gave staff the go-ahead Thursday to start a six-month review of potential new bylaw measures as part of a crackdown on vacant and "derelict" buildings in Ottawa. The measures include limiting property-tax reductions (which would require provincial approval) and issuing annual permits for vacant buildings, a practice already in force in Winnipeg.

The majority of 13 public delegations, most representing community and village associations, were squarely behind the crackdown. But Shirley Mayor Jim Watson and Coun. Mathieu Fleury take questions from reporters on March 7 in front of two poorly maintained buildings on Beechwood Avenue.

ALEX BOUTILLIER/METRO

Dolan, president of the Carleton Landowners Association, called the proposed measures

"draconian."
"If they weren't fixed up in better economic times, why is there an expectation that they could be improved in the current tough economic climate?"

Dolan asked, noting some of the buildings have been vacant — and subject to the existing bylaw — for decades.

"I think you've done an excellent job of raising the ire of the public against so-called 'derelict buildings'... I don't think that bullying property owners into improving their properties because you don't like the look of them is the way to go."

Mayor Jim Watson, who made a rare appearance at a committee meeting to defend the initiative, held a blown-up photo of one of the properties the municipality is targeting.

"If you lived next door to this property, would you be satisfied if this property remained in that condition for 10 years?" Watson asked.

He admitted after the meeting that years of a soft approach on vacant properties played a role in the situation the city currently finds itself in.

"I think we found that trying to be nice about this is not having the intended impact," Watson said. "We have to do a better job, and the direction has been given now by both committee and myself that we start looking at the maximum ability for us to clean these properties up."

Staff will report back with proposed measures in the fall.

Teen pimps not the norm, says sex-trade researcher

Prof. Christine Bruckert CONTRIBUTED

The trial of three alleged teen pimps is hardly representative of Canada's sex trade and antiquated laws against living off the avails of prostitution, said a University of Ottawa criminologist Thursday as she urged decriminalization of the practice.

"Pimping is not a crime. It's a completely exceptional case. We can't make policy based on exceptional cases," said Prof. Christine Bruckert regarding three girls accused of pimping out other kids.

"Providing these allegations are proven in court, this was not consensual sexual activity," she said, noting the teens are charged with human trafficking and forcible confinement in addition to procuring for prostitution. "When you look at who is charged with procuring and living on the avails of prostitution, often the judges will say, 'There is no coercion here.' Nonetheless, we charge them."

Bruckert interviewed 50 pimps and 27 sex workers over three years for the study Beyond Pimps, Producers and Parasites: Mapping Third Parties in the Incall/Outcall Sex Industry. What she found was a very different picture of a pimp than that drawn from iconic films, TV shows and hip-hop songs.

"They have experience in the sex industry. Some are current and some are former sex workers," said Bruckert, noting that many pimps, or "third parties" as she calls them in the report, come from managerial backgrounds. "Third parties are both men and women. Many have other jobs."

Decriminalization of pimping and the sex trade would allow sex workers to gain rights, she said.

"Sex workers are denied the same protections of any other workers. If their boss isn't a good boss, there's no place to turn. They can't go to the human-rights commission. All the kinds of safeguards that workers enjoy, sex workers don't have those."

The report points out that many third parties fill the roles of drivers, security staff, personal assistants, event planners, managers and other functions in support of their workers.

Councillor code of conduct coming

Council to discuss on Thursday. City's integrity chief releases draft code focusing on proactive disclosure, gifts, budgets and donations

alex.boutillier@metronews.ca

Councillors should increase proactive disclosure, disclose all gifts over $200, and limit donations to 3.5 per cent of their annual constituency-services budget, according to a draft code of conduct released by the city's integrity commissioner Thursday.

Many of the provisions included in the draft code of conduct, council expense policy, and community, fundraising and special events policy are already in practice, according to integrity commissioner Robert Marleau.

"The draft code of conduct and companion policies are largely based on what city council already does, along with best practices and lessons learned from other jurisdictions," said Marleau in a news release Thursday. "All of the pieces have been drafted to work together to enhance transparency and public trust."

Marleau added that Ottawa City Hall is in an "enviable" position, having the opportunity to debate and enact a code of conduct in the absence of a headline-grabbing scandal.

Specifically, the code of conduct states councillors should not give preferential treatment to family, friends or supporters. Proactive disclosure should be supported, municipal property should only for municipal business, and councillors should not unduly interfere with municipal staff.

If the rules are accepted, councillors would not be able to accept gifts or hospitality from lobbyists, and any gift over $200 would be listed in a new gift registry. A limit of two tickets to special events from one source would be permitted; any tickets of more than $30 would need to be disclosed.

Constituency-services budgets should be limited to things necessary to fulfil councillors' roles as elected officials, and donations from that fund must be limited to 3.5 per cent of the total budget, around $8,500 for 2013.

Councillors will discuss the draft code of conduct and associated policies at a committee meeting next Thursday.

Chess champ targets bylaw

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

A provincial judge threw out the $260 fine against Ottawa chess champ Daryl Bertrand on March 14 after he was slapped with the fee for playing in the ByWard Market last September in violation of a busking bylaw.

Now the chess master candidate is on the warpath to have the law changed.

"It's not my job to rule whether a law is legal or stupid," Bertrand said the judge told him after hearing his case for a little more than an hour. "She told me where to go next. What I'm really trying to do is go to Ontario Superior Court to challenge the bylaw itself."

The law, which began being enforced in 2010, requires all buskers in the market to pay a fee of $50 for a licence and daily busking permits that start at $10.45 and can cost as much as $200.

The law bars buskers from amplifying their voices, yet they can play music through loud speakers.

They also need to reserve their spots at the beginning of the day and rotate through one of 12 designated busking sites every hour.

"It was wonderful in the old days. We would have six to eight buskers on William Street. It would chase away the street kids and drug dealers that would wait in the alcove at Scotiabank," Bertrand reminisced of the days before the law.

The only thing the law has chased away are the buskers, said Eden Cheung, a performer from Vancouver who has travelled the world with his act and said he won't return to Ottawa until the law is changed.

"It's specific to Ottawa, this hyper form of bureaucracy," he said, fresh from a tour of New Zealand. "When Ottawa was good, it was comparable to any other pitch in the world. A vibrant busking community is a sign that freedoms and the arts are healthy."

Media reports indicate the store may hire as many as 250 staff.

Arrest surprised poison-letter suspect: Lawyer

A Mississippi man charged with mailing ricin-laced letters to U.S. leaders wrote in online posts that he had uncovered a conspiracy to sell human body parts on the black market. On Thursday his attorney said he was surprised by his arrest and maintains he is innocent.

Paul Kevin Curtis, 45, wore shackles and a Johnny Cash T-shirt Thursday in a federal U.S. courtroom. His handcuffs were taken off for the brief hearing, and he said little. He faces two charges, accused of threatening President Barack Obama and others. If convicted, he could face up to 15 years in prison.

He did not enter a plea on the two charges. The judge said a preliminary hearing and a detention hearing are scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday.

Attorney Christi R. McCoy said Curtis "maintains 100 per cent that he did not do this."

"I know Kevin; I know his family," she said. "This is a huge shock."

McCoy said she has not yet decided whether to seek a hearing to determine whether Curtis is mentally competent to stand trial.

Curtis, who was arrested Wednesday at his home in Corinth, near the Tennessee state line, was being held in the Lafayette County jail in Oxford, Miss.

An FBI affidavit asserts

Curtis sent three letters tainted with ricin to Obama, Sen. Roger Wicker and a Mississippi judge.

The letters read: "No one wanted to listen to me before. There are still 'Missing Pieces.' Maybe I have your attention now, even if that means someone must die. This must stop. To see a wrong and not expose it, is to become a silent partner to its continuance. I am KC and I approve this message." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monday's blasts killed three and injured more than 180 others.

The images came out hours after U.S. President Barack Obama promised a grieving city to hunt down whoever was responsible.

The images show two young-looking men wearing baseball caps, wearing jackets and carrying backpacks along the race route and weaving through the crowd. The planting of the backpack is not depicted in the video footage that was made public.

The FBI would not discuss the men's ethnicity.

At an interfaith service honouring the victims, Obama called the perpetrators of the attack "small, stunted individuals who would destroy instead of build." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The FBI released photos and video of two suspects in the deadly Boston Marathon bombings and asked for the public's help in identifying the men. The agency's website crashed within moments Thursday.

FBI agent Richard DesLauriers said the images come from surveillance cameras near the blast sites, taken shortly before Monday's explosions at the world's most famous marathon. The men are seen walking together in the crowd, and the one in a white cap is seen setting down a backpack at one site near the finish line, DesLauriers said.

New Spring Service

Effective Sunday, April 21

Route and schedule changes this spring will reflect lower seasonal ridership levels, respond to changing customer needs, and improve service reliability and connections. New timetables are available for all peak period and express routes as well as the following routes which have schedule changes: 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 12, 14, 16, 18, 85, 86, 93 through 111, 114, 118, 124, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 143, 146, 148, 150, 152, 153, 159, 161, 164, 168 and 176.

Service Highlights

- O-Train Will operate a reduced schedule from April 21-26 to reflect the lower seasonal demand. Service will be reduced to operate every 30 minutes all day Sunday and after 9 p.m. weekdays.

Will be temporarily shut down for four months from Saturday, April 27 to Monday, September 2, while upgrades are made to the stations, signals and tracks to make way for the O-Train service expansion in 2014. A temporary bus service will replace the O-Train, which will resume on Tuesday, September 3. See O-Train for further information about the expansion and replacement bus service on Route 107.
- 4 Will be reduced for the spring and summer to coincide with the end of the academic year. Some supplementary trips will continue to operate until April 26.
- 5X Will no longer operate the two trips to the Ottawa Hospital General Campus via Smyth. These trips will be provided by Route 16, which will maintain the connection to Sandy Hill.
- 16 Will be rerouted to serve the north end of Main Street to Saint Paul University, which will improve connections for the community and students. Buses will sign "MAIN" and serve the neighbourhood on a 30 minute frequency in most time periods, seven days a week. Route 16 will be removed from Hawthorne west of Main Street to Elgin, which is subject to traffic delays, and which will improve service reliability. However, Route 5 will continue to provide a link between Elgin and Main Street.

Will also be extended with limited service to the Ottawa Hospital General Campus, replacing Route 5X. Two trips will operate Monday to Friday in each direction and buses will sign "HOSPITAL". These trips will not enter Saint Paul University campus.
- 93 Will have some trips extended to Hines at Solandt on weekdays in the morning and afternoon for improved service to employment areas and reduced walking distances.

- 95 Will have a new trip added departing Place d'Orléans at 1:59 a.m. early Sunday morning, which will improve the frequency of the late Saturday night service westbound through downtown to Barrhaven Centre.
- 96 Will have an eastbound trip added on Route 96A, departing Scotiabank Place Park & Ride lot at approximately 8:30 a.m. on weekdays, for improved service frequency in the morning rush hour and to meet customer demand.
- 111 Will be reduced for the spring and summer to coincide with the end of the academic year. Some supplementary trips will continue to operate until April 26.
- 129 Will be reduced for the spring and summer to coincide with the end of the academic year. Some supplementary trips will continue to operate until April 26.
- 153 Will have trip departure times adjusted slightly for a more consistent schedule.
- 157 Will have schedule adjustments in the afternoon peak period that better meet the needs of customers, including a new early trip at 2:40 p.m.
- 176 All trips will serve the new Nepean Woods Station, located on Woodroffe at Chapman Mills for improved transfer connections.
- Schools Special school trips on regular routes and the 600 series of routes will be adjusted based on ridership levels. Some trips will be cancelled while others will be added. The school trips on Route 173 serving Cedarview Public School will no longer operate due to low ridership. For a complete list of routes and trips affected, visit www.octranspo.com.

Rack & Roll returns once again this spring and runs until the fall on routes 12, 85, 94, 95, 96, 97, 99, 101, 106, 107 and 118. Students who are 19 or younger are eligible to buy a discounted OC Transpo monthly Student pass from May through August. It must be accompanied by a valid 2012-13 OC Transpo Student photo ID card. The U-Pass will not be a valid photo ID card with a student pass.

Students age 20 or older

Students who are 20 or older do not qualify for the discounted student rate, and must buy an Adult pass from May through August. However, you may use your U-Pass* as a photo ID only, with your Adult pass until August 31.

*Record the last 6 digits of your U-Pass ID number onto your Adult pass to make it valid. Note that the U-Pass as a photo ID will not be valid after August 31.

O-Train Closure April 27 to September 2

O-Train service will be suspended this spring and summer for major upgrades in preparation for expanded service in 2014. The project includes two additional siding tracks for passing trains, signal upgrades and station improvements. We will also use this opportunity to perform general lifecycle maintenance work. The work is being performed when ridership levels are lower to minimize the impact on customers.

A temporary bus service will replace the O-Train from April 27 to September 2. Route 107 will travel parallel to the O-Train routing between LeBreton and South Keys stations, and will make limited stops along the route.

Timetables for Route 107 are available online and in print. In addition to the replacement bus service, there may be alternative bus route options that work for you. Travel planning help is available — just call 613-741-4390 or visit octranspo.com.

Regular O-Train service will resume after Labour Day on Tuesday, September 3.

Expansion of the O-Train service will occur sometime in 2014.

Thank you for your patience during the O-Train expansion project.

Fertilizer plant explosion. West, Texas, tends to its wounds as investigators await clearance to enter the blast zone

Rescuers searched the smoking remnants in West, Texas, Thursday for survivors of a thunderous fertilizer-plant explosion, gingerly checking smashed houses and apartments for anyone still trapped in debris or bodies of the dead.

Initial reports put the number of fatalities as high as 15, but later in the day, authorities backed away from any estimate and refused to elaborate. More than 160 people were hurt.

A breathtaking band of destruction extended for blocks around the West Fertilizer Co. in the small community. The blast shook the ground with the strength of a small earthquake and levelled dozens of homes, an apartment complex, a school and a nursing home. Its dull boom could be heard dozens of kilometres away from the town about 32 kilometres north of Waco.

Waco police Sgt. William Patrick Swanton described ongoing search-and-rescue efforts as "tedious and time-consuming," noting that crews had to shore up much of the wreckage before going in.

Searchers "have not gotten to the point of no return where they don't think that there's anybody still alive," Swanton said. He did not know how many people had been rescued.

There was no indication the blast, which sent up a mushroom-shaped plume of smoke and left behind a crater, was anything other than an industrial accident, he said.

The Wednesday-night explosion rained burning embers and debris down on terrified residents. The landscape was wrapped in acrid smoke and strewn with the shattered remains of buildings, furniture and personal belongings.

Former human-rights boss a 'tyrant': Report

Shirish Chotalia.

Former head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal 'belittled and insulted' staff: Integrity commissioner

When an earthquake rattled the nation's capital in 2010, the then-head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal ordered her frightened staff to stay inside their shaking building so they could attend a ceremony she had organized for herself, a withering new report says.

"gross mismanagement" levelled against Shirish Chotalia in a report released Thursday by the public-sector integrity commissioner, Mario Dion, whose two-year investigation concluded that Chotalia's behaviour toward some employees and members of the tribunal constituted harassment and abuse of authority.

The report casts Chotalia as a tyrant who belittled and insulted her staff to the point of tears. She spied on her staff and kept a secret file on one employee, the report said, even though that person had never been told of any problems.

Her aggressive interrogations of some staff caused "severe anxiety," the report adds.

Cops worry about vigilante justice after Nova Scotia teen's suicide

The RCMP say they're concerned that posters that have appeared on Halifax streets in support of four boys accused of sexually assaulting Rehtaeh Parsons, 17, could incite vigilante behaviour against the teens.

The brightly coloured posters bear the words, "Speak the Truth" in large, bold print and urge people to support the boys, though it does not identify them.

"There's two sides to every story," the posters read. "Listen before you JUDGE." RCMP Cpl. Scott MacRae said Thursday the posters don't break any laws, but police say they have received a number of complaints about them. The Nova Scotia girl's family said she hanged herself last week after she was sexually assaulted by four boys and a photo of the alleged incident was distributed online. Trudeau. New Liberal leader inaccurately attacked by PQ in Quebec

Justin Trudeau made his first visit to meet Quebec politicians on Thursday and it was Trudeau 1, Parti Québécois zero at the end of the day.

The PQ couldn't wait to confront its latest nemesis, the first-born son of old foe Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

But its attack Thursday turned out to be a real clunker. A provincial PQ cabinet minister Jean-Francois Lisee, delivered a lengthy denunciation at a news conference where he accused Trudeau of behaving like some "young prince" because, he alleged, Trudeau had "demanded" to meet the leaders of all parties at the same time.

However, it turns out that information was wrong. People from various quarters, including the Quebec premier's office, disputed the basis for the attack. "It was a communication error. And that error was transmitted to Mr. Lisee and Mr. Lisee 'scrummed' on bad information," said a spokesman for Quebec's PQ Premier Pauline Marois.

"The request was to meet the three leaders — but individually."

Shootings 'inhuman, unprecedented'

Greece. Three suspects remain at large after 29 Bangladeshi labourers shot at strawberry plantation

Greek officials promised "swift and exemplary" punishment Thursday for three strawberry plantation foremen who allegedly shot and injured 29 Bangladeshi labourers protesting late pay.

Police are seeking the three suspects who disappeared after Wednesday's shootings, which occurred during a confrontation with some 200 Bangladeshi farm workers in the country's rural south who say they have not been paid for half a year.

Seven Bangladeshi workers were still receiving treatment in local hospitals, but none have life-threatening injuries.

Government spokesman Simos Kedikoglou condemned the "inhuman, unprecedented and shameful" shootings near the village of Manolada in the southern Peloponnese region.

The plastic-topped greenhouses that cover Manolada's broad plains account for most of Greece's strawberry output, using cheap labour by Asian immigrants often housed in primitive conditions. There have been several attacks on migrant strawberry workers in recent years, but Wednesday's was the worst so far.

"The barbarous attack ... conjures up images of a slavery-based South that have no place in our country," Justice Minister Antonis Roupakiotis said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

War trial. Bosnian-Serb leader may testify on conspirator's behalf

The two alleged chief architects of Serb atrocities committed during the 1992-95 Bosnian war could meet in a United Nations courtroom for the first time, if one of them gets his wish.

Former Bosnian-Serb leader Radovan Karadzic sought a subpoena Thursday to compel his one-time military chief, Gen. Ratko Mladic, to testify in his defence during his genocide trial at the Yugoslav war-crimes tribunal.

Although the two Bosnian-Serb wartime strongmen are on good terms in the UN detention unit where they are both being held during their separate trials, Mladic's lawyers argue that the former Bosnian-Serb army commander has the right to remain silent in Karadzic's case because it is so closely interwoven with Mladic's own trial.

In a letter to Karadzic's lawyer, Mladic's legal team says a suspect has "the protected right to remain silent and not testify or be forced to testify so as to potentially incriminate himself" and that the right extends to Mladic not having to appear as a witness in Karadzic's trial.

Poland. Warsaw-uprising veteran recalls hardships

Many decades since the events, Jakub Gutenbaum still squirms at the thought of scalding-hot walls in the basement he was hiding in during the Warsaw ghetto uprising, as houses overhead were on fire.

Talking to The Associated Press on Thursday, the 83-year-old Gutenbaum recalls how German troops came into his hiding place and forced everyone out at gunpoint.

Gutenbaum, his mother and his little brother lived through the horror of the uprising, an against-all-odds revolt by hundreds of lightly armed Jewish fighters against a much larger Nazi force that broke out 70 years ago on Friday.

The number of people on benefits declined in six provinces, while there was little change in the other provinces.

Icelandic app helps relatives avoid hookups

All in the family. When users 'bump' phones, an alarm sounds if they've got too much in common

Have we met somewhere?

"It's not a good feeling when you realize that girl is a second cousin."

Einar Magnusson, a graphic designer in Iceland's capital, Reykjavik

You meet someone, there's chemistry, and then come the introductory questions: What's your name? Come here often? Are you my cousin?

In Iceland, a country with a population of 320,000 where most everyone is distantly related, inadvertently kissing cousins is a real risk.

A new smartphone app is on hand to help Icelanders avoid accidental incest. The app lets users "bump" phones, and emits a warning alarm if they are closely related. "Bump the app before you bump in bed," says the catchy slogan.

Some are hailing it as a welcome solution to a very Icelandic form of social embarrassment. "Everyone has heard the story of going to a family event and running into a girl you hooked up with some time ago," said Einar Magnusson, a graphic designer in Iceland's capital, Reykjavik. "It's not a good feeling when you realize that girl is a second cousin. People may think it's funny, but (the app) is a necessity."

The Islendiga-App — App of Icelanders — is an idea that may only be possible in Iceland, where most of the population shares descent from a group of ninth-century Viking settlers, and where an online database holds genealogical details of almost the entire population.

Arnar Freyr Adalsteinsson, one of the developers, said the app allows any two Icelanders to see how closely related they are simply by touching phones.

Food bugs: Report shows campylobacter is on the rise

U.S. health officials are seeing more food poisonings caused by a bacteria commonly linked to raw milk and poultry. A study released Thursday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said campylobacter cases grew by 14 per cent over the last five years. The report was based on food-borne infections in 10 states, and found that overall, food poisonings held fairly steady in recent years. There were no significant jumps in cases from most other food bugs, including salmonella — shown above in a petri dish — and E. coli. But campylobacter rose, and last year accounted for more than a third of food-poisoning illnesses in those states and about one-tenth of the deaths. CDC/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vancouver. Sun Run plans colourful Boston tribute

There will be no black arm-bands or other dark keepsakes handed out at this year's Vancouver Sun Run as participants in Canada's largest road race pay homage to victims of the Boston Marathon bombings.

Organizers of the Loskop Marathon in South Africa, also to be held Sunday, plan to hand out black ribbons to all 6,000 participants in honour of the Boston victims. But participants in the 10-kilometre Sun Run are being encouraged to wear blue and yellow — the official colours of the Boston Marathon

— as a tribute to the victims. THE CANADIAN PRESS

CAN YOU BELIEB HE DID THAT?

Here's what's dominating the water-cooler conversation this week:

1 Terror in Boston. If the idea was to strike at the heart of the legendary Boston Marathon, America's foremost road race, the bomber doesn't know the running community very well. You can run but you can't hide. Look over your shoulder: There are 23,000 runners on your tail.

2 Terror in Washington. In the wake of Boston, the U.S. Senate backs away from a bipartisan gun-control bill that would have expanded background checks for people seeking to acquire firepower. Is there such a thing as a self-inflicted act of terrorism?

3 Justin Trudeau. Everyone is asking if our new Liberal leader is a chip off the old block or a whole new shrub. Trudeau 2.0 is a kinder, gentler version, but does it have

Once in every generation, a kid comes along who embodies the spirit of that generation. And once in every generation, a kid comes along who should just shut up.

Even though they're a mere 1,200 light years away, let me be among the first to volunteer to make the trip. Whatever's out there, it's as far away from Justin Bieber as I can get.

RE: Ontario Experts To Begin Halifax School Board Review Into Rehtaeh Parsons Case, published April 18

As a 40-year-old woman, having marginally lived through a similar circumstance as Rehtaeh Parsons, I feel compelled to comment.

When funding is cut in programs such as violence prevention and education, this is the result.

Females are not being educated on how to protect, defend, and care for themselves. Males are not being educated about respect, relationships, and sexual health.

As a youth, I was raped, I was drunk and I was a virgin. I can speak for many friends who experienced their first sexual encounter the same way, most of my friends in fact. The same problem existed over 20 years ago and is clearly still very prevalent.

The education should come from home, community, and from school. We need to tell our girls that they are at risk when they drink. We need to tell them that their peers will take advantage of them, mock them, ostracize them, and, yes, even rape them. We need to teach them to stand up to what is ahead and that even their friends will hurt, crush, humiliate, and even rape them.

I think we need to teach boys more about consent, responsibility, respect, and healthy sexual relationships. They need to be informed that a conversation should come before sex. They need to know that women live years in shame and guilt when they rape them.

Synopsis

Tom Cruise plays Jack Harper, a security and drone maintenance man on planet Earth 60 years after a war with the alien Scavs destroyed all life on the planet. Nearing the end of his mission, he and girlfriend Victoria (Andrea Riseborough) are due to return to home base, now located in outer space. Thing is, Jack doesn't want to leave. He has memory jolts, shards of recollections of the life he led before the war and he wants to stay and explore them. When he discovers a survivor, Julia (Olga Kurylenko), he begins to question everything about his existence. Liz Brown sits in for Mark Breslin.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Olga Kurylenko and Tom Cruise star in Oblivion. HANDOUT

Just another pretty film

Oblivion. Tom Cruise's new post-apocalyptic thriller is all style with very little substance

Richard: Liz, this is one stylish movie. Every frame could be clipped and hung on the wall to garner oohs and ahhs from your house guests. Everything about it looks great. Morgan Freeman even wears a jaunty cape. But, I'm afraid the style took precedence over the substance. There is much to like here, but for me the story starts to go slightly out of orbit in the last hour and never quite becomes earthbound again.

What did you think?

Liz: Richard, I agree. The sights from Jack and Vika's fabulous tower in the sky ... the sweeping aerial scenes ... and don't get me started on Jack's secret mountain hide-away where he listens to Zepelin on vinyl — the stunning visuals made me crave life in a post-apocalyptic world. The wild tale was fun, until it turned into a renegade Armageddon. I don't know if Joseph Kosinski ran out of ideas as he wrote, but the last half feels a bit hastily cobbled together.

RC: It does. I won't give away any spoilers from the last half because the plot thickens near the end, but it still manages to be kind of standard. Of course there is a scene of Cruise outrunning a giant fireball, and does everyone in post-apocalyptic worlds listen to classic rock? But, having said that, I liked a lot of this. This is the kind of movie Tom Cruise was born to star in, the sort of thing that made him a superstar. What did you think of co-star Olga Kurylenko?

LB: Olga's Bond Girl cred makes her the perfect counterpoint to Cruise's action hero swagger — his comfort in these types of roles is palpable and you can just sit back and enjoy the ride. After a few flops last year, Tom is back in my good books!

RC: Nobody outruns a fireball quite like Cruise and I thought Riseborough brought a lot of humanity to a character who isn't required to do much. A lot of the heavy lifting is left to Olga's character, and while she's beautiful, I'm afraid she has the range of an emoticon. She does much better work in To the Wonder.

LB: Riseborough was great in her role — though her character's refusal to question the status quo irked me. I like my ladies a little stronger. This is no Minority Report, but it's a fun futuristic adventure fronted by Tom Cruise.

Criminal comedy of errors

Pain & Gain opens next Friday. HANDOUT

Pain & Gain. Director Michael Bay takes a wild true crime tale and turns it into a darkly funny film

LIZ
liz.brown@metronews.ca

Halfway through his latest film, director Michael Bay deems it necessary to remind the audience that what they're watching is still based on a true story.

The intertitle comes as the story descends into the surreal — Dwayne Johnson grills human hands, Mark Wahlberg hacks up a body in Calvin Klein underwear and Anthony Mackie tangles a chainsaw in human hair as he tries to decapitate a corpse.

Aside from a few creative liberties, everything in Pain & Gain did happen in Miami in the mid-90s, when a couple of bumbling bodybuilders came up with a get-rich quick scheme that involved kidnapping, extortion and eventually murder. The real-life criminals — Daniel Lugo and Noel Doorbal — now sit on Florida's death row.

Bay pulled the story from a three-part crime series by Pete Collins that was published in the Miami New Times in 1999. The series outlines the missteps Lugo and Doorbal took, from trying to return a bloodied chainsaw to Home Depot, to failing to ensure one of their intended victims was actually dead — after they blew him up in a car and then ran him over twice.

It's hard to deny the story is darkly funny, something seemingly pulled from the brain of Quentin Tarantino, with torture scenes in warehouses filled with sex toys.

But the fact that it's been turned into a crime comedy doesn't sit well with some people — including one of the victims, Marc Schiller, who last week told the Huffington Post he was "appalled" at the film.

But Bay was expecting mixed reactions to the movie. "I want people to be conflicted (when they see this film)," he says. "I want to show a lot of grey areas. When you return a chainsaw that you're trying to cut a body up with — with hair in it — to Home Depot, to get a bigger chainsaw, you don't think that's kind of funny? It's not your cookie cutter movie."

It's smart storytelling, according to Johnson, who plays a character that was a composite of two real men who played lesser roles in the crimes. "In the beginning you want to go on the journey with these guys; they're kind of likeable, but at the end, all that gets thrown out the window and you're happy and satisfied that they get punished," he says.

Bay hopes that the movie shows crime from the perspective of the criminal. "(Criminals) sometimes think they're not doing something morally bad, or they think they deserve (what they're stealing). You really go into a criminal's mind (with this movie)."

Drama

Mad Ship

Director. David Mortin

Stars. Nikolaj Lie Kaas, Gil Bellows

Don't be fooled. Although its ominous title suggests a goofy horror flick, Mad Ship is far from delivering a fun, spooky ride — although it is a bit scary. A morose movie about an immigrant family defeated by the Great Depression, the persevering (and possibly insane) patriarch builds a boat to sail back home across the prairies. Sure, it's a strong metaphor about survival but even with a compelling cast, this ship still ultimately sinks.

Zegers tries life in The Colony

While filming The Colony, Kevin Zegers forged a friendship with renowned actor Laurence Fishburne over a rather unique common bond.

"He started (in the film industry) when he was really young too, so without being pushy, he was very open to talk about how he dealt with it all," said the one-time child star (now 28) during a recent interview. "I still hear from him all the time."

Zegers has of course matured from earlier days playing opposite a basketball-dunking dog in 1997's Air Bud. In fact, the young talent is more recognized these days for his acclaimed work in such award-winning films as Transamerica and his stint on TV's Gossip Girl.

In The Colony however, Zegers has atypically turned to sci-fi action, playing opposite Fishburne in the apocalyptic thriller.

Set during a futuristic ice age, Zegers leads an outpost struggling to survive against an onslaught of virus and a maniacal mob.

"That was kind of the draw for me going into it," said Zegers of the uncharacteristic role. "I just finished a six-month period drama thing and I kind of wanted some fun and (to) run around and kick some ass and this thing came. Especially with Laurence and Bill (Paxton) already attached, I thought they had sent it to the wrong person."

Alien invasion

In anticipation of Will Smith's new movie, After Earth, we take a look at the actor's other out-of-this-world roles.

Independence Day

Punches an alien in the face. Says, "Welcome to Earth." A star is born.

Men in Black

Hangs out with aliens, including Frank the Pug — when not killing them. He will do this two more times, in the sequels.

The Wild Wild West

Does a mechanical spider count as an alien?

I, Robot

Aliens here? No! They robots.

I Am Legend

The mutants trying to kill Will are more dangerous than aliens. They are us.

Will and Jaden Smith are not only the stars of After Earth, the upcoming sci-fi adventure film, they're also Metro's special guests on Monday. The father and son sit down for an intimate and exclusive Q&A with Metro to discuss the Earth's future, what impact we're having on the environment and advances in technology, transport and the media. In the meantime, here's a look at our future, as seen through the movie camera lens.

The Will Smith Timeline

On Sept. 25, Willard Christopher "Will" Smith was born in, as you know from the Fresh Prince theme song, West Philadelphia.

1980s

With pal Jeffrey Allen Townes, a.k.a DJ Jazzy Jeff, Smith created feel-good rap songs like Parents Just Don't Understand and Summertime. And in...

1988

...they won the first-ever Rap Grammy. In...

1990

...his rap fame landed him a starring role on a sitcom, The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air, a fish-out-of-water comedy that came at the right time: Smith was reportedly bankrupt.

1993

His first major film role, Six Degrees of Separation, was based on the play about a con artist (Smith) who poses as Sidney Poitier's son. The role got him acting cred. But it was in...

1995

...that he became a movie star, appearing opposite Martin Lawrence as one half of Bad Boys. The film grossed $141 million worldwide.

1996-97

Then came the real hits: Independence Day cemented his status as a blockbuster draw, and Men in Black proved Will + sci-fi = billions.

1997

Smith marries actress Jada Pinkett, his best co-star since Tommy Lee Jones.

2001-2013

The Smiths — Will, Jada, Jaden, Willow — are a powerhouse. They rap, act, direct, produce and even write. Will and Jaden's new film, After Earth, is "based on a story by Will Smith."

Series explores life after prison

Rectify. The Sundance Channel show looks at what happens after you're set free

MICHAEL FREIDSON
Metro World News in London

Thanks to advances in CSI-like technology, more convicts are being released from prison early, exonerated by DNA evidence.

"I'm glad to be free," they usually say, "and start my new life." And then what? How do they ease back into a world that has left them behind?

That's the premise of the new Sundance Channel series Rectify, from a producer of Breaking Bad.

Daniel Holden (Aden Young), convicted of raping and murdering his teenage girlfriend, is freed 19 years later, left in the care of his sister (Abigail Spencer) and worried mom (J. Smith Cameron). Meanwhile, a Senator fights to prove he's guilty. Outside, Daniel is as trapped as in.

The series was shot on location in Georgia — in a real house, among locals. Creator Ray McKinnon was inspired to do for the South what Scorsese did for New York.

"I'm not from New York," says the writer/director, best known as an actor on Deadwood and Sons of Anarchy, "but I knew something about 'Mean Streets' was authentic. And as someone from the South, I wanted to show the third dimension."

Every character — from Holden to his "hick" brother-in-law — is fully developed, far from a Deliverance caricature. "These are complex people."

The new Breaking Bad?

Rectify is from a producer of Breaking Bad, but it's a natural fit on the Sundance Channel — it's languid, with dappled sunlight, long silences and a meditative quality. How will it be received, in an era of cliffhangers, hooks and binge-viewing?

"There is a bit of a 'did he do it, did he not do it,' that's an ongoing 'what's gonna happen?' But ultimately, that's not what the show is about. The show is about private lives. And as a viewer, I become very empathic because I really care about everybody," says Spencer.

"And it's timely," she adds, mentioning the West Memphis Three case. "People are spending their lives in prison and then getting off because of DNA. So it's foreign and yet it's known."

Spencer was a natural fit for the sister Amantha — she grew up partly in the Redneck Riveria of northern Florida.

Jail time

McKinnon has spent some time in prison — "Mostly drinking offenses. My 20s were ... a self-destructive time. Well, teens too." — but nothing compared to Daniel.

"The time I spent in a jail cell was very short, so it was a completely different experience. I just remember — there's something about the idea of having something that restrictive and how that, in a strange way, because of the lack of choices, gives you a lack of freedom that too many choices don't. This show taps into that."

Baby trumps all in Bubl  's new world

Fatherhood. The Canadian crooner has a new confidence about himself that comes through clearly on his album To Be Loved

After the spectacular success of his Christmas album — eight times platinum in Canada, thrice in the U.S., a Juno award win for album of the year — Michael Bubl   might have felt a certain pressure in trying to create a follow-up, the sleigh bells ringing in his ear turning gradually deafening. Instead, he says he went into To Be Loved — out Tuesday — feeling more blithely self-assured than he'd ever been in the past, committing to a breezy live-off-the-floor recording strategy and declining to polish away the resultant small blemishes in his production.

He had the most fun he's had recording an album, he says. And the principal reason he was so unfettered? He says that the news that his wife, Argentine model Luisana Lopilato, was expecting their first child made everything else seem a little less pressing.

"I think the whole lack of trying (to top Christmas) came from me finding out I was having a baby — I think when that happened, it made me very brave," Bubl   said during a recent chat in Toronto.

"The truth is, really, my priorities just flip-flopped, and I went: 'What's important to me? My wife's health. My baby's health. My family. And then this record.' If people love it, that's awesome. If they don't love it? You know what, I've done pretty well.

"Not that I didn't care, because of course I care, but I wasn't insecure."

Bubl  , of course, has been provided plenty of reasons for such validation within the industry. It's clear he's not immune from the influence of naysayers, whether imagined or not — when discussing the Junos, he calls it a "thankless job" because "no matter how good I do, or how funny it is, there will be people that just can't stand me" — but the slights seem to weigh less on Bubl   now than they did at a more diffident stage of his development.

So why has Bubl   succeeded to an extent that others haven't?

"Maybe I'm not following everybody else. I'm not doing the same thing everybody else does. I'm not just writing a song and having the rapper rap a thing over it. I'm doing something that maybe isn't as commercially accessible but is really cool," he said.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Lisa Rinna to join RHOBH?

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

I don't know if I should feel proud of Lisa Rinna's tenacity in attempting to stay in the public's eye or sad. In any case, it looks like the TV personality is angling for a comeback, this time on Real Housewives of Beverly Hills.

Yes, Rinna is aiming for an injected-lip showdown on the Bravo show, apparently replacing Adrienne Maloof.

"Producers had initially asked Lisa to become a part of the show when it first launched, but she turned it down because she decided to do her own reality show for TV Land," a source told RadarOnline.com. That show, Harry Loves Lisa, wasn't long for this world.

"Lisa might come across as very sweet, but she isn't a pushover," the source says.

Interesting choice, RHOBH. And good for you, Rinna. I always feel like she's teetering between some form of mainstream television greatness, or appearing on the cover of a Sky Mall magazine. Maybe this is a step in the right direction?

Justin Bieber

Maybe Anne Frank would have been a Belieber?

Maybe Justin Bieber wasn't so off-base with his speculation that Anne Frank would've been a fan of his after all.

Frank's step-sister, Eva Schloss, is coming to the maligned pop star's defense, calling the brouhaha over Bieber's sentiments left in a guest book at the Anne Frank House "so childish," according to the Telegraph. "She probably would have been a fan. Why not?" Schloss says. "He's a young man and she was a young girl, and she liked film stars and music. They make a lot of fuss about everything that is connected with Anne Frank."

Beckhams losing their 'working-class accents'

New research proves that David and Victoria Beckham are losing their working-class roots — or at least their working-class accents, according to the BBC.

A study at the University of Manchester charting the Beckhams during the six years they lived in the United States finds that their blue collar brogues have dramatically diminished. For example, David previously dropped the "h" from "him" 80 per cent of the time in 2007, but by 2013 it is down to 20 per cent. All of this means that Posh Spice is in fact getting more posh.

"We think this may be connected with the fact that she's forged a different career as a widely respected fashion designer," Naomi Proszynska, a linguistics expert involved in the study, says.

No 'how you doin' in Aniston's future

Jennifer Aniston had only one response when she was informed about the rumour circulating online that NBC was bringing Friends back for one extra season: "Did Matthew Perry start that?" she asked Ellen DeGeneres. "Because he's getting some good airtime on this show. I've been watching."

So where did this false bit of info happen? DeGeneres tried to clear things up for Aniston, saying, "It's all over the Internet. There's a big rumour. It started in Oklahoma."

As a James Bond aficionado, I was more than a bit disappointed that vodka didn't make an official appearance in his blockbuster, Skyfall.

I watched it again the other night, from the comfort of my own couch, and took a tally of the liquor brands that made their way into the flick. Heineken lager, The Macallan single malt scotch and Courvoisier VSOP cognac got plenty of screen time — all purchased no doubt. You'd have to be me to recognize the bottle of Bollinger champagne — its appearance obviously not purchased. But short of Bond sipping a martini, nary a mention of his favourite tippie, vodka.

A vodka martini is a boozy cocktail that can turn off even the worldliest secret agent. That's why producers have scrambled to flavour their output with just anything to make them more approachable both with and without mix.

Trio of coaches axed after regular season concludes

The first time Byron Scott was fired, Lawrence Frank took his job. Now they're both looking for work, and the NBA's coaching carousel is already spinning in three cities.

Scott was fired by the Cleveland Cavaliers, Frank was ousted by the Detroit Pistons and Doug Collins resigned as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers, all three on Thursday, a day after the end of the regular season.

And now the wait continues to see what happens in other cities, such as Sacramento, Toronto and maybe even Atlanta.

R.A. Dickey pitched six innings of two-hit ball to go along with seven strikeouts Thursday as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the White Sox 3-1 to earn a series split with Chicago.

Dickey (2-2) left the game with what the team called a "precaution to neck and back stiffness." It was the second straight quality outing for the knuckleballer after he allowed one run over 6 1/3 innings in a 3-2 win in Kansas City.

Yankees general manager Brian Cashman said Jeter should be able to resume his rehabilitation when the new crack heals, in four to eight weeks.

Senators overcome adversity once again

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Murray Pam
ottawa@metronews.ca

Unlocking the post-season

The key to clinching a playoff spot, and possibly playing into June, rests with Craig Anderson.

Monday began as a typical game day in Boston. Senators players took to the ice for their pre-game skate then headed back to the hotel for a nap. They arose from their respite to learn of the horrific events transpiring only a few blocks away. The club hopped on the team bus and waited out the impending postponement at TD Garden. Three hours later the team packed up and flew home once Logan Airport was reopened.

The next day, the Senators put on their game faces, eking out a 3-2 victory over the Hurricanes and edging one step closer to their post-season goal.

It was a third consecutive win for a team that was in free fall just 10 days ago. While the Senators' recent five-game losing skid gave fans a scare, the playoffs are now very likely. The club has 50 points with six games remaining. Right now, 56 points are required to clinch a post-season berth, a number that will go down as the top playoff teams lose to each other. Naturally, the Sens would prefer to control their own destiny and avoid backing in to the dance.

The win streak has been bolstered by the returns of impact players Craig Anderson, Milan Michalek and now Jared Cowen from injury reserve.

First and foremost, the key to clinching a playoff spot, and possibly playing into June, rests with Anderson. Victorious in his past two games, the stellar goalie appears to have returned to the level that Sens fans have grown accustomed to. After missing six weeks, Anderson sits atop the NHL with a 1.55 goals-against average and

.949 save percentage.

After a monthlong absence, Michalek has been a welcome sight. Showing no ill effects from knee surgery, Michalek notched goals in his first two games.

Originally thought to be lost for the season after extensive hip surgery, Cowen made his presence known immediately Tuesday by levelling Carolina's Jeff Skinner with a thundering centre-ice hit.

So is Erik Karlsson next? The Norris Trophy winner has begun skating and may be only two to three weeks away. If Karlsson defies the odds and finds his way back into the lineup, the Sens' chances of going deep into the playoffs improve dramatically. Of course, they have to get there first.

MLB. Gallardo does it all in 1st game after DUI charges

Brewers starter Yovani Gallardo celebrates hitting a two-run home run on Thursday. GETTY IMAGES

Matt Cain's struggles continued against the Milwaukee Brewers.

Yovani Gallardo homered and struck out six in his first start since being arrested on a drunken-driving charge, and the Brewers beat San Francisco 7-2 Thursday for a three-game sweep.

Gallardo (1-1) was arrested early Tuesday morning. The right-hander allowed five hits, one walk and one earned run in six innings to give his team its season-high fourth victory in a row after a 1-8 skid.

"It was tough," Gallardo said. "It's obviously something you don't want to ever run into or happen."

"Something like that is a big deal. It's serious. I apologize. I'm just going to do everything possible and everything I have to do so something like that doesn't happen again."

Ryan Braun and Jonathan Lucroy also homered for Milwaukee, which swept San Francisco for the first time since July 18-20, 2008.

LeBron James is having an MVP-type season in which he has posted career bests in shooting percentage, three-point percentage, rebounds per game and double-doubles. NICK LAHAM/GETTY IMAGES FILE

LeBron's game still on the rise: Spoelstra

NBA. Miami's James makes his case for MVP award with career bests in several key statistical categories

There has never been a unanimous MVP in the history of the NBA. Not Wilt Chamberlain, not Bill Russell, not Shaquille O'Neal, not Michael Jordan.

LeBron James might soon change that.

At least, the Miami Heat believe he should.

After finally winning that first NBA title last June, James was better than ever in his first year as a champion. He established career bests in shooting percentage, three-point percentage, rebounds per game and double-doubles — and did it all while taking fewer shots per game than at any point in his 10-year career.

So those are just a few of the many reasons why the Heat are overwhelming favourites to win it all once again in these playoffs, which open this weekend. Miami will meet Milwaukee in a first-round series starting Sunday night.

"Numbers aren't why I play this game of basketball," James said. "Numbers have never been why I play the game. That's not how I was taught to play the game."

James has said he plays for only one thing — titles.

"He came off one of the more historical MVP seasons with a championship. Most people, the human condition would have been to relax and say, 'OK, that's the pinnacle,'" Heat coach Erik Spoelstra said. "But instead, he wanted to push and find another barrier. And that's why we don't want to, he doesn't want to, put a ceiling on how far he can go.... He's a player that could conceivably continue to get better."

James shot 56.5 per cent this season and made 103 three-pointers — no one in league history has ever shot so well and made so many shots in a season from beyond the arc. In the metric known as PAR — an acronym for points, assists and rebounds per game — James led the league for the fifth time in six seasons. He led the league in field goals, but was only seventh in shots attempted. He could have missed 348 more shots and still finished with a better shooting percentage than scoring champion Carmelo Anthony.

James' final numbers: 26.8 points, eight rebounds, 7.3 assists and 1.7 steals per game. Since the league began charting steals four decades ago, only Jordan and Larry Bird have put up similar numbers in a season. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An MVP win this season would be LeBron James' fourth in five years.

- Plenty of people around him insist that in the one year in that span when he didn't win — the year it went to Derrick Rose — voters were thumbing their noses at both his decision to join the Heat and the manner in which that move was announced.

- "The other day I was sitting there with him, a week or two ago, and it dawned on me: 'Do you know you're about to get four MVPs in five years?' And he's like, 'Man, I'm just a kid from Akron,'" Heat guard Dwyane Wade said.

Lakers lock down West's 7th seed

The Los Angeles Lakers reached the post-season as the Western Conference's seventh seed with an OT victory over Houston on Wednesday, capping a 28-12 surge in the second half of the season for a star-studded club that has endured countless twists and turns.

Even with Kobe Bryant injured, Dwight Howard insists the Lakers have a chance to make a playoff run. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raptors. GM without a deal for next season

The Toronto Raptors played their best basketball of the season down the stretch, providing a tantalizing glimpse of what might have been.

But Thursday, as the NBA season was about to get really interesting, the Raptors were done and departed, their Air Canada Centre lockers empty — and that said everything about their season. Once again, it wasn't good enough. Different year, same story.

The Raptors (34-48) won seven of their last eight games, but finished four games back of a playoff position, missing the post-season for the fifth consecutive year.

Maybe the biggest question heading into another off-season of uncertainty is the future of president and GM Bryan Colangelo.

Colangelo doesn't have a deal for next season, with the club holding an option on what would be his eighth year. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Try to focus on what is good in your world and ignore those issues that annoy you. Believe it or not, the solution to your cash flow dilemma is close at hand — so keep thinking and keep looking.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

As of today, you'll see things in a clearer light, which in turn will give you the confidence to take the kind of risks you may have previously avoided. What have you got to lose?

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

According to the planets, this is the wrong moment to take action but the right moment to sit and ponder life's meaning. Despite what others say, there is no rush to get things done.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Everything will come right in the end. Keep that thought in mind over the next few days and before you know it, your life will be back on track.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Cosmic activity on and around the career angle of your chart means you have the ability to influence important people, the kind who can help make your dreams come true. Make contact and show them what you can do.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are so many good influences in the heavens at the moment, so don't waste time on anything trivial. Open your eyes and see the world for what it is: a playground full of possibilities.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You will receive something today that you feel you may not deserve, but that is beside the point. What matters is that other people think you deserve it, and it would simply be bad manners to turn it down.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Do you have a vision of how your life could and should be? What are you doing to turn it into a reality? The time has come to do something with your potential.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

It doesn't matter how you get your message across as long as others are left in no doubt that you mean business. It's OK to be assertive, especially when your ideas are important.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You can create something wonderful over the next few days, something that will leave a positive mark on the world. You can also use your talent for leadership to help others create wonderful things too.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

It seems you are feeling guilty about something you should have done but never got around to. According to the planets, you will get another chance — soon.

Pisces

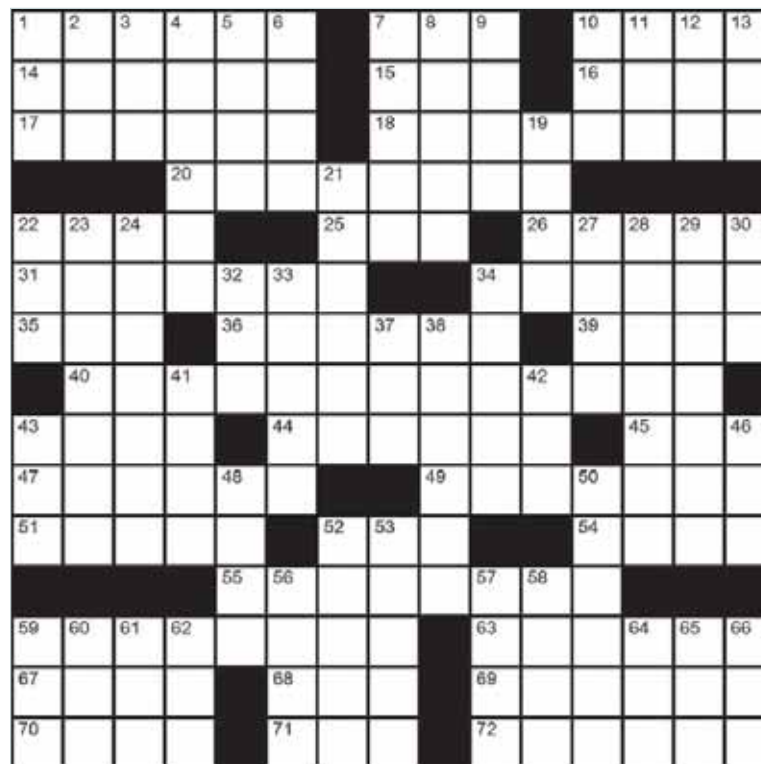

Feb. 20 - March 20

Your mind is on full alert now and some ideas will occur to you over the next few days. Make sure you make a note of them before they fade from memory. And do something with them. SALLY BROMPTON
